Creating the Manuscript

- Microsoft Word files are required for all manuscripts. The manuscript should be as short as possible, and no longer than 7000 words (except for review), with the abstract < 400 words.
- Generally, the manuscript should be arranged in the following sections and appear in order: Title,

Abstract and Key words, Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results, Discussion, and Conclusion, Acknowledgements and References.

- All manuscripts must be written in clear and grammatically correct English. Scientific language, nomenclature and standard international units should be used.
- The title page should include: title of the article, full name, institution(s) and address(es) of author(s); the first author's professional title and degree; and correspondence's detailed postal and e-mail addresses and phone and fax numbers. For authors in China, the information mentioned above and an abstract in Chinese are required.

Acknowledgements should be a brief statement at the end of the text and may include source of financial support. The contract No. should be provided.

References Author-year citations are required. In the text give the author's name followed by the year of publication: (Crews and Davies 1986); Crews and Davies (1986). Where there are more than two authors, only the first should be named followed by et al. (Cataldo et al. 1983). Where there are more than one citation in the parentheses the “;” should be used (Yang et al. 1998; Obata and Umebayashi 1997), but if it is the same author, the “,” should be used (Smith 2000, 2002). Reference to unpublished data and personal communication should not appear in the list but should be cited in the text only (e.g., Clarke J M 1994, personal communication; Wang G P 2003, unpublished data). In the reference list, the references should be listed in an alphabetical order. Names of journals should be in full titles rather than the abbreviation. The following examples are for guidance.
